COMMENT OF THE DAY

General Ely's Appointment

THE replacement General Navarre Commander - in - Chief Indo-China is of profound importance and significance to the people of that warridden country and the French Union forces fighting there. The appointment throws an entirely now French emphasis on the whole question of indo-China. Manifestly it means that, come what may at Geneva, France has no intention of militarily abandoning the country. On the contrary it is a most decisive sign that if events decree the war shall continue, a very much more determined effort will be to obliterate the Vietminh rebeis as a mititary factor in Indo-China. The reptacing of General Navarre was expected. The failure of his strategy in the Red River delta and the loss of Dien Bien Phu were severe blows to his prestige as a general in the heid. Moreover, all reports indicate that these reverses have affected the morale of the French Union forces and they require new . and inspiring leadership. With the appointment of General Ely, who as Chairman of ranks as the highest memforces, the boost m morace is assured, and when he better. takes over his command, a new strategy and probably revised tactics can be expected in the use of the Eden smiled and said attracts attention. Killed, Wounded Several

Buenos Aircs, June 4. One man was killed and several wounded in a gunbattle which ended a metal-workers meeting here

The police used gas to break up the fight, in which bottles were also used as weapons, and cordoned off the area.

Eyewitnesses said the fight began when delegates arrived in force from outlying areas to break a strike which has been complete in the capital for a fortnight. Afterwards a delegation which went to police headquarters reported that President Juan Peron had agreed to interview the workers.

Meanwhile, impromptu speakers harangued the crowd, and told the metal-workers to go to union headquarters tomorrow and "kick the executive out". -Reuter.

Can Now Store Sun's Energy

Conversion Into Electricity

Baltimore, June 4. The United States Air Force announced today it had found a way of storing the sun's energy and turning it into electricity for the home.

The method opens up the possibility of homes being sup-plied with power from a sheet of steel either resting on the roof or built into the house The Air Force said it had developed a "solar generator" using cadmium sulfide, a yellow powder used as a pigment in the manufacture of paint, The powder is processed into crystal, which picks up the sun's rays. A wafer thin sheet of this crystal, four by 15 feet, would enough current for a normal house, the Air Force

Electrodes are attached to the side of the crystal and a wire running from the positive electrode to a motor or battery and back to the negative electrode forms the circuit.

amount of current generated depends on the area of the electrode attached to the crystal The Air Force's experimental generator used a piece of crystal about the size of a lump of sugar and an electrode an produced a third of a volt.

The generator was developed by the Wright Air Development centre near Dayton, Ohio, It is the United States second "power from the sun" device. In April the Bell Telephone Company announced it had produced a "solar battery" which converts sunlight into electricity through silicon transitions. In this system light striking strips of silicon creates a flow of electric current in atoms in the strips. Reuter.

A New Weapon For International Understanding

Ottawa.

A new weapon for international understanding is being forged in the schools of Ottawa.

The weapon takes the form of exhibits which graphically show how boys and girls in other lands live, play, work, learn, cut and so on.

It was the brain child of a far sighted group of adults, banded together for constructive action under the name of the Ottawa Citizen's Committee on Children. These men and women first got together about seven years ago with an idea they could do things for children that schools and other organisations were not doing.

Everything they've started has been greeted with enthusiasm. First they conducted mildoor art classes for children. Then they staged plays in hospitals.

One project led to another committee from the evolved an offshoot. of Other called the Children ands' Section and ponsible for travelling exhibits shown to thousands of schoolchildren in the intermediate grades.

The section at present is headed by Mrs D. M. Coolican, who, like her colleagues, impresses one as a person dedicated to a vision, and the vision?

"Well." Mrs Coolican told the United Press, "we believe that not nearly enough information is given to Canadian children about the children of other lands before their minds become cluttered and distorted with the bias and preconceived prejudices of so many of the adults whom they come in contact."

working How's the scheme children Never have much enthusiasm for a classroom subject. Not only that, Mrs Coolicam said, the exhibits also "have changed completely the children's attitude towards immigrants" and the boys and girls in foreign nations.

LATEST EXHIBIT The latest exhibit to make the rounds of the schools happened to be about Pakistan. Its highlight was a display of 25 dolls, made by children in Pakistan and then dressed in the varied traditional and modern garb of the country. The clothes, too, were made by Pakistani children. When the exhibit made its introductory appearance at school, it was accompanied by a member of the Pakistan High Commissioner's staff here. job was to give a short talk, with a microphone attached commends a "crazy hat" as then answer the inevitable barcurious Canadian children. The exhibit was shown at the intermediate public schools, the intermediate separate schools and the French - Canadian separate schools. Like other exhibits, it was an integral part of the social studies curriculum of each class and served as the springboard from which a detailed study of the relevant country was launched.

Mrs Coolican and her hard working colleagues, with the blessing of parents, teachers and school boards, also used entertaining but instructive playlets to enlighten Ottawa children, to bring them the message that "foreigners" are not so different after all. The playlets, with children cast in the principal roles, answer in easily - remembered fashion the questions a child from one country would be most apt to ask a boy or a girl from another. -United Press.

JOSTLING MATCH

By LES ARMOUR

London THERE is always somebody worrying about us Londoners.

Now a lady doctor is fretting over "the extremely dangerous practice of overcrowding tube trains during the rush hours."

This has been going on for a long time (whether she knows It or not) but she fears that it is "getting worse and worse,"

Her alarm, as Allee would have said, "gets curioser and eurloser" as the protest goes is not the horrid possibility of getting knocked and cracking one's skull on the concrete that bother

She is disturbed by the "great atrain, both physical and paychological" which results from Catops, starts, lurches, and people being thrown against one another,

Little does the know,

Not Londoners

It is true that, at Epping, or Eating or Morden you can see the limp, raglike weakling being swept disdainfully on by the guard who is preparing the train for its return journey

But these are not Londones proper. They are the newcomers, the lost, and the bewildered.

The true Londoner is adept with the elbow, He knows just when a heel can be crunched most profitably on offending

He knows just how much pressure it takes to dislodge iui ill-prepared visitor from a destred spot near the doorway of an approaching carriage.

A fiendish lurch upsets him not at all. He has been prepuring for it. At just the right moment, he will be pitched, looking helpless, into the arms of the nearest pretty girl.

Nor is the young lady thereby given a horrible psychological complex. She knows that this is the special prerogative of the pretty girl in London She would not lightly trade her place in a crowded London tube for a empty seat in country bus

And there is something delightfully sporting about it all The joys of a rugger scrum are pale beside the intensity of a i tube scuffle.

There Are Rules

Contrary to the doctor's information, there are rules, Not written rules, of course. The French have signs in the Metro telling you just how to weigh the right of an expectant mother against those of an invalid pensloner. But the English have never liked written rules.

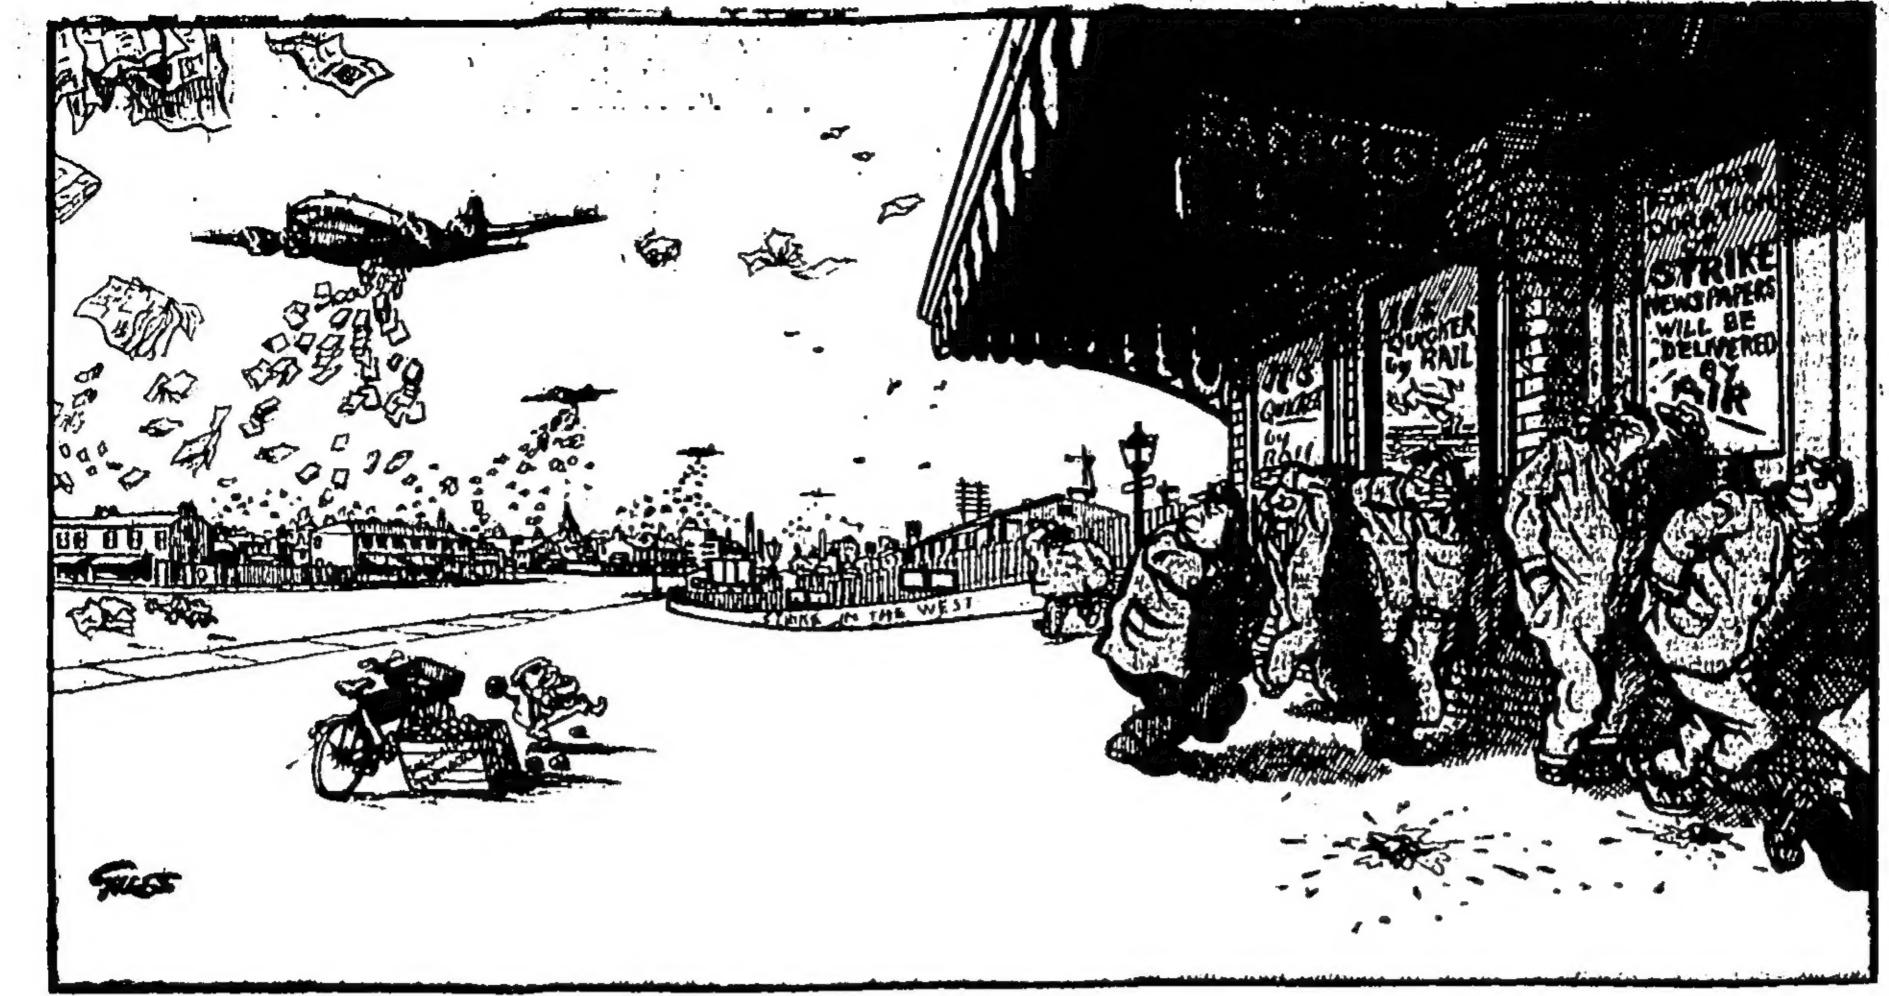

Those of the tube are subtle. First of all, no one must be killed. Dead passengers slow down the service. Nor should anyone be seriously injured. That would spoil the game.

Old ladies may be elbowed, but never kneed. It is not fair to cram a civil servant's bowler hat down over his eyes, Young ladies must not be tripped unless you are ready to entch them.

That kind of thing.

But it is all a lot of fun. The doctor should try, it sometime.

THE MARIE-ANTODISETTE. This superb watch, made by Abraham Loids Breguet for Marie Antoinette, contained all the complications known in the 18th century, Its movement contained hour, quarter and minute repeaters; independent centre hands; small sweep seconds; perpetual calendar; mainspring power reserve indicator; and, finally, a metallic thermometer! Every part, where passible, was made from solid gold, and this masterplece took nearly twenty years to complete.

LATEST FASHION FAD

Quickest ever progress from Dior to chain store has been made by the new bead necklaces. And so the fashion you see in this John French picture, that was once the favourite of governesses and schoolmistresses, becomes the newest favourite of the well dressed.

There are glass beads cut to sparkle and coloured sapphire or scarlet, chins beads in white and pink and pale blue, round bubble beads in amber or charcoal. The more you wind round your neck and the more you jumble them up—the smarter they are.—London Express Service.

There is no evidence that worker wasps or bumble-bees get "dope" from their queens, but ants and termites do.

TALL OR SHORT

ATEW light on why the world's IN most forceful men are usually of short or medium stature comes from Oxford University doctors.

Careful study of human growth has shown that men who are below average in height reach physical maturity carlier than taller men.

Early physical maturity is often accompanied by a more mature mental outlook and extra drive, So the boy who stops growing early may be quicker at getting ambition into perspective and is better endowed to pursue It with vigour.

Examples of shortish men of outstanding drive and accomplishment? Julius Causar, Wellington, Nelson, Napoleon, Lloyd Goorge, Mussolini, and Hiller were all of moderate height. So often, too, in business and in the professions, the men at the top are not much more than shoulder-high to a six-footer. Until now the dominance of short men has been explained mainly on the psychological principle that they unduly assert themselves to compensate for their lock of stature. This lem. "I'm pretty well known theory would seem to apply only to those who are so far below average height that they consciously feel interior. My own height? A regreitable

LOOK POR THIS STERNA SYMBOL

The first self-winding Calendar watch on a ball-bearing.

Eterna offers you a self-winding watch of two-fold value - not only does it tell you the time, second by second, but it records the date, day by day. . This new Eterna-Matic gives final and decisive proof of the exceptional merit of automatic winding on a ball-bearing. • The 5 microscopic steel balls in the Eterna ball-bearing are absolutely unbreakable. . Better still, instead of wearing out - as a "staff" does - this bearing (which is no bigger than a pin's head) is self-polishing, thus its winding efficiency increases as it works. Needless to say, this constant automatic winding of the movement has a decisive influence on the accuracy of the watch and, at the same time, enables it to accumulate a power-reserve of 44 hours. This amazing performance has so impressed leading New York reporters that they have spontaneously declared that the Eterna-Matic "climinates." all previous winding systems.

Oddly enough I have left mentioning until the last the power and vitality of the author's description but from the liberal quotations included in this review, it is possible to gauge the heights, of Hassold, Davis's literary ability.

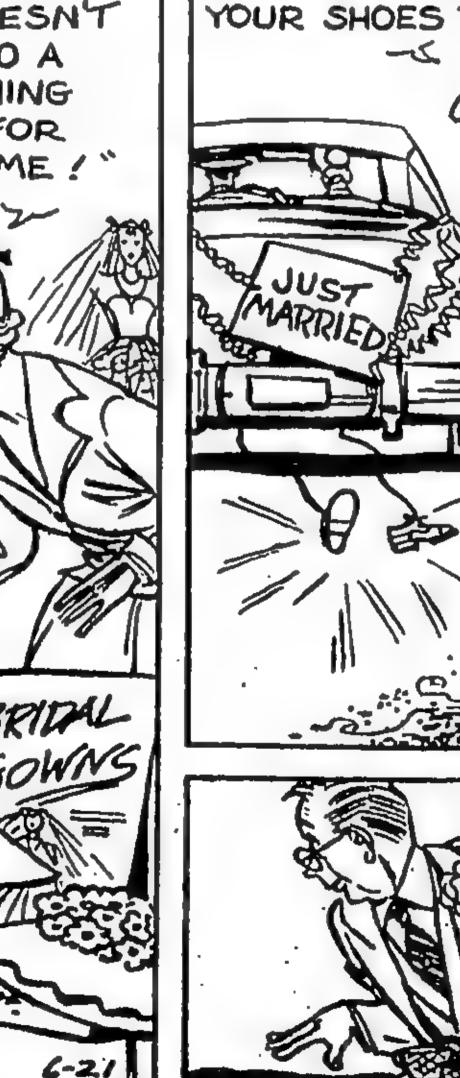

The power of his imagery is tremendous, the tempo of the story beautifully controlled. A poet-explorer is rare combination these days. When you realise that Davis is also an extremely able story-teller (the book is sprinkled with anecdotes sufficient to fill a volume of short stories) you can understand that this book is excep-

SERIAL SHEPHERD

Today is Dragon Boat Festival, and the traditional Boat Races associated with the Day are being held throughout the Colony. The principal Races are taking place at the Chung Sing Bathing Shed (West Point), where this afternoon His Excellency the Governor is presenting the prizes. This ceremony will be covered by Radio Hongkong's Chinese Section.

The English Service also plans to do a commentary on a "Boat Race", which promises to be Malcolm Sargent, as colourful as it is unique. This particular scene is at Tai Po, where this morning a Regatta was organised by the Co-operative and Marketing Department. Here, in contrast to the traditional "long" Dragon boats, the crews row in ordinary fishing boats.

Now, among the events in this Tai Po Regaltu this morning, for the first time in the history of the Colony, two European crews will try their skill and wind against selected crews of Chinese fishermen. Appropriately enough the two teams call themselves "Kwai Lo" and "Faan Kwai",

THESE SPORTS CARS AREN'T SPORTING

By GILBERT ELLIS

An independent young man called Donald Healey has sparked off a crisis in the sports-car racing world. Young Mr Healey is the owner of the name you see linked with Austin on the low-slung bonnet of one of Britain's newest sports-cars. And with David Brown (Aston Martin and Lagonda) and Sidney Allard, he is one of the white hopes of the country's sports-car industry.

The Lawn Bowls League season enters its fifth week this afternoon with further promise of keen competition in all the three divisions. M. MacTAVISH

The season is over. It has been a long and tedious one but it has certainly never been uneventful. There has been enough incident and speculation to satisfy everyone and in most traditional style it has finished on a red-hot controversial note.... both in the legislative chamber and on the field.

It is now common knowledge that the Hongkong Football Association has voted against the employment of Mr Tom Sneddon as a full-time coach. It is no part of my intention to suggest that the Council was right or wrong in its decision and I offer no criticism of the Association in this domestic matter for theirs is the sort of decision that leaves us with the question---Where do we go from here?

Getting On In Years? -- You Can Still Get On In Golf

Says BERNARD HUNT

My father-you see him in the pictures here-can still keep up with me from the tee in spite of the attentions of Anno Domini. But I have to confess he has to resort to a little trickery to do it. But then there is no reason why YOU shouldn't try the same trick. It is merely the using of a very high tee, and learning to hit the ball on the upswing from off the toe of the left foot. instead of the usual position opposite the heel.

The answer to that, of course, is that any older golfer who hasn't the right equipment just cannot hope to play well. I couldn't get reasonable figures with the odd clubs I have seen around various courses. And I am sure their owners can't. i cannot urge too strongly any older golfer who wants to get more from his golf to go along to his professional and have a good check over for the right gear. You have seen this horrible position a thousand times on the first tee every Sunday morning. Note the immobility and stiffness in legs, hips, shoulders. There is no sign of a natural pivot and the shot develops into a lurch of the body which usually brings the head of the club into the ground behind the ball.

If you can walk you can pivot. Try it. There is nothing acrobatic about it. The hips have turned and so have the shoulders. Result is that the hands are right and the body is set for a proper swing. Older golfers CAN pivot. Try it. It will help your golf whether you are seventeen or seventy — but especially if you are upward of 50.

Moscow For These Footballers By J. W. TAYLOR

Everything is all set for a memorable June day. The players of the Kilmarnock Football Club, runners-up to Motherwell, champions of Division "B" of the Scottish League, are to receive the Freedom of Moscow. What is more, they are to play the Dynomos Football Club and another Moscow eleven right on the banks of the Volga.

Malcolm McDonald, man who helped bring about such a change for the better in the waning fortunes of the Kilmarnock Club, answered the 'phone the day he realised with considerable personal satisfaction that his boys had become the season's runners-up in the

ly: "This is Moscow calling, Mr McDonald." Now Mr McDonald has endured some shocks in his time as a Soccer club manager, but this really was electric. Before he could look up the Russian for "who's speaking?" the Voice went on:

The Voice said ever so sweet-

"This is Moscow speaking. We have been watching the progress of your team during the season. We are delighted with your success, and invite you to come to Moscow and rescive the Freedom. This invitation is sponsored by the Dynomos football club of Moscow, and you are asked to arrange to meet them in a match." After calling upon an astonished office boy to thump him on the back to make sure he wasn't really dreaming, Malcolm could only mutter something about Iron Curtains, passports, visas and such.

"Tut-tut", said the Voice soothingly, "everything will be urranged for you-you do not need passports or visas on this occasion. As for 'Iron Curtains' -we do not understand. We do not have them in Moscow. However, come to the Volgaand fraternise with us in the spirit of good companionship, Special accommodation will be reserved for you all and you will receive the Freedom keys at the boundary."

It did seem to Mr McDonald that this had gone far enough-a Russion speaking over the phone from Moscow in perfeetly good Scotch, so he found it necessary to ask a few terse questions clearly to indicate that practical jokes were not appreciated at the Kilmarnock headquarters.

The Voice was not at all upset; lost none of its politeness. and, more important, was so truthful in reply that Malcolm again requested the office boy to give him another thump, Strange, but nevertheless true . . . It was the Dynomos football club of Moscow on the banks of the Volga offering his boys the Freedom of Moscow! There was nothing for it but to offer to consult his directors and ring back the Moscow Club later. And thus it was arranged to accept the Freedom of Moscow and to play the Dynomos team and another Moscow eleven on the banks of the Volga in June. There is, of course, no mystery at all about this affair with a Russian flavour. This Moscow from whence came The Voice, is a pretty little Ayrshire villago 18 miles from Glasgow and 21/2 miles short of Galston —and the villagers are all fans of the Kilmarnock football club, whose recent successes have delighted them so much.

The Dynomos is the name of the village school senior team, whose pitch is close to the banks of a river that is called the Volgai

He added that professional football was a big business. Many clubs employed 70 to 80 people in various capacities, and a team like his needed an average "gate" of 15,000 a week to keep them out of financial trouble. He estimated that if Bristol City was playing in the First Division the extra people drawn into the city seth Saturday would spend £250,000 a year in local shops.

tricks and hopes to find a trick! North hand is trickless, South is content to be set one trick (with his honours as an offset against the penalty) rather than allow East-West to bid and make a game.

If West doubles three diamonds, East must accept the double, For all he knows, West may have strength in all three of the suits that he has doubled. If West passes, East must act. He cannot double, for he likewise has no double of a diamond contract. It isn't easy for him to find the right bid, since South's shenanigans have disrupted the auction.

East's best bld is three hearts, treating West's double as the equivolent of a heart bid. But East merely bids three spades, West will probably bid four hearts and take a chance that there is a sound game contract at either spades or

Blow To England's Test Hopes: Tony Lock Is Ill

London, June 4. With the first English-Pakistan Test match only six days off, Tony Lock, the Surrey and English left-arm slow bowler, has suspected whooping cough. It is extremely unlikely that the selectors will now consider him when they met on Sunday to pick England's team. In view of Lock's indisposition, it must have cheered the selectors when they heard of the brilliant all-round performance by Johnny Wardle, the Yorkshire slow left arm spinner, in the game which ended today at Hull.

Arrest Of Japanese MPs Demanded

Tokyo, June 4. The Chairmen of the Diet, Mr Tsutsumi Yasujiro, who declared the session extended at the height of last night's battle a few minutes before midnight, today demanded the arrest of those responsible for the riot.

The supreme prosecutor's office decided to take no action unless they receive a formal request from the Mr Noburo Salto, Chicf of the National Rural Police, described last night's riot as a "kind of coup d'etat".

He said the police had information cartier that the Socialists were planning "something unusual" in the Diet and had received a request from the Diet authorities before the Lower House convened to be ready to send riot squads into the debating chamber "at a mement's notice".—Reuter.

5-Nation Disarmament

London, June 4. Secret five-nation disarmament talks, which adjourned today for the Whitsun weekend, are expected to end here within the next week or 10 days with East and West still deadlocked on crucial issues, diplomatic sources said.

Representatives of the major "atomic" powers-the United States, France, Russia, Canada and Britain -have been meeting here for three weeks as a subcommittee of the United Nations Disarmament Commission.

The delegates were charged with finding an "acceptable" solution to the disarmament problem, including atomic control, and are due to report back to the full Commission by July 15.

But, the sources said, the subcommittee had made no progress towards East-West agreement on a main principle-the question of control of atomic RUSSIA INSISTS Russia has continued to insist that the first step in any atomic disarmament should be the prohibition of the hydrogen and cate. atomic bombs. But the Western powers are demanding adequate powers of inspection and control to ensure that any atomic disarmament plan is respected. Work on the remaining issues on conventional disarmament -on which East and West are also deadlocked-is expected to be completed shortly.-Reuter.
